Korean War: Conflict Involving Two Superpowers

Conflicts:
- Cold War:
- Korean War

Cold War:
- 1945: The peace treaty was signed.
- 1947: The United Nations was founded.
- 1950: The Korean War began.

Korean War:
- 1950: The United States was involved.
- 1953: The armistice was signed.

Thesis:
The Korean War was the first major war of the Cold War and resulted in the United States intervening to support South Korea's efforts to defend themselves against the North Korean invasion. The U.S. provided aid in an effort to support South Korea's military efforts and to prevent the spread of communism. The armistice of 1953 was signed, which led to a division of Korea.

Lost and Plain Dealer:
- Korea Armistice Signed:
- Hostilities Cease Today

Immediate Impact:
- The war resulted in the division of Korea.
- The United States increased its military presence in the region.

Historical Significance:
- The Korean War marked a turning point in the Cold War.
- It demonstrated the resolve of the United States and its commitment to its allies.

Table
- The Korean War: A Conflict Involving Two Superpowers
- S. Korea's Role
- U.S. Involvement

Assessment and Conclusion:
The Korean War had a significant impact on the Cold War, leading to increased military presence in the region and shaping the geopolitical landscape.